2. Residents of Staats said that troops from Stendal and Gardelogen have been located in the area south of Staats for several weeks. Soviet troops were observed to be quartered in the former German brick barracks about 1.5 km south of Boergitz. From 50 to 60 tanks were parked in the nearby woods. A tank training area with steep slopes, ditches and emergency bridges was located east of the concrete automobile highway. An impact area with concrete barracks, which was used prior to 1945, was south of the tank training area. The barracks were now used as artillery targets.

25X1 [redacted] Comment. Camp Born is located in the woods southeast of Born. The new hutment is probably part of the camp. [redacted] the 7th Gds Tank Div and the 19th Gds Mecz Div in this area. 25X1

25X1 [redacted] Comment. The camp in the woods south of Staats and Boergitz is usually referred to as the camp southeast of Uchtsprunge. It contains some low brick barracks which were typical of those built by the former German Army as troop training grounds. A report of 23 May 1951 [redacted] the camp southeast of Uchtsprunge was still vacant at that time, [redacted] mentioned in the present report indicate that components of the 207th Itz Rifle Div 25X1

 only rear details of the 207th Itz Rifle Div, may constitute an indication as to the present occupation of Camp Uchtspringe.  the impact area is probably the reconditioned Willersleben-Salchau firing lane which possibly includes the concrete highway.
